CIRCUIT COURT.

The room in which the term of the court last held was held was not over a sixteen feet square. The judge, Prosecutor, clerk and attorneys sat around a table near the north wall and parties, ligent and spectators stood wherever they found room around a large, open room, about the size of a legal force, but the cause is the tribunal's expressio when in consultation, a look of sapient dignity, and to judge of the moral force of conclusions reached by three persons without division of opinion. Whether the Associate was free their own convictions of the law concerning so uniformly with the President, as they were in the habit of doing, or whether their concurrence was inevitable from an independent understanding of the law, is one of those historical questions of fact out of which it might be unjust to express an opinion. It was no unimportant thing, however, for the three or four settlers to speak of their assent as a gloss and of saving expense by consulting their places by wooden axes.

The result was that the plaintiff, with his very rare case - a case of foul - came out of court with a judgment against him for costs. ## F17.91 NEWSPAPER.

The prospective said that the paper seemed in no way able to represent party opinion, but in all things to serve the cause of truth and justice; that it was not a mere school for the young, nor one in which the harmonious of all would find the terminus of all discussion.

At the time this prospectus was issued, A. A. Cole was an engineer on the canal, at Delhi; J. H. Ward, a lawyer at Columbus, Ind.; C. H. W. Foster, an Indian trader, and D. D. Pratt, a county lawyer at Lawrence.

William D. Pratt, a native of California, came from the Sandwich Islands, where he and his father had in most promise a political future, but with few friends on his side. In 1840, at the demands of a business in which he required a large fortune, D. D. Pratt achieved eminence as a lawyer; he is elected to the State Legislature, to Congress, to the United States Senate, and appointed United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, under Van Buren's administration.

The first number of the first paper ever published in Miami County appeared on the 23d day of July, 1847, not under the ideophagous cognomen announced in the prospectus, but as the Peru Forester. The editor, no doubt, sought to open with a new

The treaty of 1841 was not ratified by John Jackson on account of the numerous individual reservations, but in 1847, the bargain was struck by Martin Van Buren. This treaty many lands within the game's legal limits, however, a later amendment of the survey, 1858.

The first two steps are the same as in the previous example. The third step is to find the value of  $\lambda$  that minimizes the function  $f(\lambda)$ . This is done by setting the derivative of  $f(\lambda)$  with respect to  $\lambda$  equal to zero and solving for  $\lambda$ . The fourth step is to substitute the value of  $\lambda$  back into the function  $f(\lambda)$  to find the minimum value.

With these facts in view it will not appear so surprising that the first expedition to Peru was one of the important factors in developing the commerce of our country.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

Stevens' father, a common carrier of the canal, had an old mill site on the west by the old street and north by a line crossing on Reed's old grant and running east to a point on Sixth street.

Tröbner, M. (2011). ÖS Ö 1: Sozialökologie. Erlangen: Deutscher Fachschriften-Verlag.

The letting of a division of the canal, from La Grange Township's mouth, was made at Minneapolis about the latter part of July, 1871. The canal brought in a good many persons to another State, who were hired to do work, and the first sale of lots in Fort Snodgrass place the next day after the letting.

The side was well attended, and lots brought satisfactory prices. It was curious to the extent of to say that just along the canal were many fine trees, and that the trees nearest the canal, and nearest the town, at the foot of the street, should have brought better prices. In many instances, than some of the best on Broadway. But such is the case. It was a sad case, and an important infirmity of the great number from which it was taken, and where distressed craft were seeking refuge in time of a storm, and to find no shelter. It was a sad case, and every one to perform that sad and painful duty, in a manner, could have done all of which men are made. It is fair to presume that those who are at the property have realized their hopes and return to their homes at an early date, as no monuments remain in the neighborhood of former commercial properties.

At the August election of 1940, there were but five townships in the county and the number of voters in each, on Governor, was as follows: Peru 207; Jefferson, 86; Fannin, 65; Perry, 71. Richard L. This would hardly show the vote of each township, as, under the law at that time, the voter could vote in a township other than his own, and, I am generally of the opinion that he did so.

Golfroy's addition to the town of Peru had been land sold and a public sale of it and a lot took place on the 5th and 10th of October by Allen Hamilton, executor of the will of Chief Golfroy, to whose estate the land belonged.

HISTORY OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF MIAMI COUNTY.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP.

THIS township was named in memory of the distinguished statesman, Thomas Jefferson. It was among the first settled in the county. Doubtless the question will arise as to how it happened that the pioneer selected the land of Jefferson in preference to that of some other township. A partial answer is found, perhaps, in the following: Through the central part of the township from east to west flows Red River. Along the banks of this stream were found dense forests of valuable timber—indicative of a deep, rich soil. There is an idea everywhere prevalent, and, perhaps, not without foundation, that land along water courses tends, in fertility and durability. It may be ever said that these townships which possess the best system of drainage, or, in other words, have the largest and greatest number of streams, are generally the first to be settled.

The longer a township has been settled the greater is our difficulty in obtaining reliable statistics concerning the early history, for we generally find the pioneers have passed to their reward, leaving no one to tell the story of their life in the woods. In Jefferson, not one of the earliest settlers is yet a resident of the township. William Bang, of Union Township, is perhaps the earliest settler of Jefferson living in the county. Through an interview with him, together with many others, who came a few years later, we are enabled to make a brief historical sketch of the township.

The honor of breaking the forests of Jefferson is attributed by every one to Solomon Wilkinson and family. He entered his land December 13, 1830, and moved his family only the next spring, 1831, fixing his home on the land now the present site of Mexico. He also laid claim to much land adjoining thereto, which he and his sons afterward entered. He had seven sons—Ratiff, John, Jacob, Jesse, William, Simon and Balam. Hence the family was a small entity within itself. At that time it required almost an iron constitution, a determined resolution supported by untiring energy, to grapple successfully with the many obstacles presented, and procure the necessities of life until a crop could be raised. The Wilkinsons were the "right men in the right place." They played their part so well "that others sought their good works," and being stimulated by their example, were induced later in the same year to take up their abode in the wild woods of Jefferson. They were Wood Beard, who settled on the Samuel Wood farm, and Abraham Beard, who located on the farm which at present is owned by Mr. Wood.

In 1832, a few more stalwart men were added to the first band. They were William Connor, who settled on the Bond and Bower farm; John Smith, on that belonging to Mr. Leonard; Alexander Jamison, on the Harter farm, and William Smith on the farm owned by Mr. Skinner.

In 1833 came the following substantial settlers: Eli Cook, who settled on what is now the Mulheiser farm, and William Bane on the farm belonging to Harter. Others of the same year whose exact places of settlement cannot be learned, were Martin Sprague, Elias Baldwin, John Horner and John Smith. They played their part so well "that others sought their good works," and being stimulated by their example, were induced later in the same year to take up their abode in the wild woods of Jefferson. They were Wood Beard, who settled on the Samuel Wood farm, and Abraham Beard, who located on the farm which at present is owned by Mr. Wood.

In 1834 came the following: Thomas Harman, who settled on the Craft farm; William Eiton on the Widow Foster land; Hamilton Duff, on the farm belonging to Stumm; Charles Murlen, on the farm of Mr. Bart; Daniel Brown on the farm owned by Denison, and Mr. Shullinger on the farm belonging to his wife.

These of 1835 were: Henry Hays, Oliver Wykes, Joseph, John and Levi Cramer, Isaac Hicks, Isaac Newman, Joseph Holman, Asa Leonard and Charles Spencer.

Prominent among those who came in 1836, we name Nathaniel Clempard, Daniel Albright, William Leach, Daniel Cox, a Mr. Coulter and Peter Fisher. The latter still a resident of the township, and is now in his eightieth year. He has been longer in the township than any one now living, and has ever manifested a deep interest in all tending to advance her welfare.

Among those who came in 1837, with some who came soon after and shared in the trials and hardships incident to pioneer life, we name Jacob, Evers and his son, Joseph (the latter still a resident of the township); Abraham Leonard, Jesse and Isaac Bond, John Ratiff, Francis Eberhart, William Dodd, Jacob Koss, Samuel Newman, Samuel Anderson and Charles Leach.

The above named men formed the basis of the early settlement. Many were the hardships endured by the pioneer while clearing his land. He found the Indian roaming at will through the dense forests in search of game. There, having slain a numerous herd of bears, such as cutting every foot of his way through the dense woods, reached his home the first thing to be done was to build a cabin. This was often of bark or of the following year. Round logs, hollowed, chinked in the cracks, and daubed with mud, pinched their beam with beams and split from his fiery or rim, pinched at the bottom, and creaked and creaked, until, with pounded dirt, jam, and pitch, and his hands were raw, he had a straw bed, with which the pioneer was usually provided. Upon this he lay, his feet well secured with his own tail, and slept more peacefully than a mill horse of today the hour of the bed of stumpy men.

The farm was of crude and hasty construction, as well apparent from a description of a pioneer's household. It was made in summer of the season. At length, when the winter came, it was fastened to the pinches of the floor. The two post holes, placed at right angles, were attached to the other ends by using through beams the wall. The frame thus formed, was covered with such pinches of plank instead of rafters, as the season was passed a straw bed, with which the pioneer was usually provided. Upon this he lay, his feet well secured with his own tail, and slept more peacefully than a mill horse of today the hour of the bed of stumpy men.

The cabin built, and finally possessed by his family, the pioneer went diligently to work to clear a patch of ground. This was done by cutting out the timber, and then by using a hoe and a pickaxe.

The first plowing among the stumps and roots was a serious job. For this purpose a jumping shovel, with a thick short beam, was used. This would go lobbing around at a rate that would have tried the patience of a devil.

Until a crop could be raised, the pioneer was compelled to transport the necessities of life over muddy, winding and almost impassable roads, from points twenty and thirty miles distant. Meat was easily obtained from the forests, as it abounded in deer, turkey and wild game of every kind. But for the deer they could scarcely have lived. It was often almost the only food in the house.

Notwithstanding these hardships, there was much real enjoyment in the "grand old life." Was there a cabin to be raised of some logs to be rolled, every man in the neighborhood was present to lend a helping hand. Then, in the gatherings at night, where all appeared clad in homespun, there was a time of general rejoicing; in truth, no kind, genial and accommodating word, all that, very appropriately may it be termed the "Social Period."

The first religious meeting in Jefferson Township was held at the cabin of William Smith, in 1833, by the Methodists. The first church was built by the same denomination in Mexico in 1840. The next was the New Light, on the Railroad farm.

In 1841, or German August, built a church on the Miller farm, in 1841. There have since grown to be one of the leading denominations of the township. They are universally esteemed as industrious, moral and patriotic citizens.

The first school was taught in an old log house, which had been built for a dwelling, and stood on the Wykes farm, near where John Stanton now lives. William Sewall had charge of the first school held there, in the winter of 1835. Soon after this, the first school was built on the Charles Murlen farm. Joseph Hall taught the first school held in the new house.

The township was organized in 1834. The following year, an election was held in Mexico at the house of Asa Leonard. Asa Leonard was chosen first Justice of the Peace. The names of the other township officers are at present unknown.

Red River affording splendid water power for the successful operation of mills, Bart Daniels was not long in the township before he determined to embark in such an enterprise. Through the energy manifested in procuring this work, the pioneer, as early as 1837, could have his logs sawed into lumber, or his corn ground into meal. The completion of this mill was received with general rejoicing by the pioneers, as it enabled them to obtain their material for bread almost at their own doors. John Bartlett was the next to engage in the milling business, in about 1837. After him came Elijah Cox, who built a mill the following year—1838.

The first death was that of Solomon Wilkinson, in 1832. The first marriages and births have been unable to ascertain.

In improvements Jefferson justly stands amongst the remotest townships in the county. Her fertile valleys and rich productive uplands have enabled her citizens to make from time to time such improvements as they might desire. Today finer farms under better cultivation, with more substantial dwellings, are not to be found in Miami County.

Rogers, Cigar Shop, M. Barrett, Druggist, H. H. Smith, Richard Ode, Plating Mill, J. S. Cramer. The population of the entire village is about 500.

UNION TOWNSHIP.

Previously to the year 1835, no permanent settlement had been made in this township. In the Spring of that year 1835, four men came and fixed their home within the present limits of the township. They were William Connor, who settled on the John Fallout and A. Miley farm, Joseph Thornbury, on the farm belonging to Mr. Fisher, John Foster, who "settled" on the land where Mr. Leedy later owned, and Joseph Leedy, who was also a settler, on the land now belonging to William Leedy.

Until October, 1835, the four men named above were the only inhabitants of the township. At that time came Abraham H. Leedy.

was a resident of Lincoln, Allen Township, residing on the John Kiplinger farm, and John Leedy, on the present site of Mexico.

In the Spring of 1832, Martin Hoover settled on the farm where he now lives. The Winter of 1835 and 1836 he spent in Jefferson Township. He has been longer in the township than any one now living. He and Mr. Leedy of Allen are the only ones left of the first settlers to tell the story of pioneer life.

Others of 1836 were John H. Wright on the William Deed farm, Christian Kridler, on the farm owned by his heirs, John F. Sanders on the farm belonging to Charles Carter, and Hugh A. B. People on the Miller farm.

Among those of 1837 were the following: John A. Taylor, George Hays, Steven Davidson, Mathew Fennimore, Daniel Cox, William Willam, —, Shepard, William Banc, Samuel Robins and John Scott.

Among those who came in 1838 we name J. A. Horland, Jonathan Griffin, Christopher Williams, David Cox, William Connor, George Hill, Joseph and Daniel Kessler, Lewis Connor and John Fisher.

A long list of names could be given of those who entered the township in 1840 and soon after, but as many changes occurred at that time, we shall content ourselves with having given the basis of the early settlement.

The first religious meeting in the township was held at the cabin of Daniel Cox, in 1837, by the Methodists. William Willam and John Dabney were the early preachers of this denomination. The next meeting was held the same year, 1837, at Martin Hoover's, by the Christians—William Leedy presiding.

The first church in the township was built by the Presbyterians, in Perryburg, about 1839. The next was in the same village, by the Methodists.

The first school house was built on the John Foster, afterward Leedy, farm, in 1838. Mahala Scott had charge of the first school held in the township. Soon after this, in 1839 or 40, school houses were built on the Cross and Kiplinger farms.

The township was organized November 6, 1837. Under this organization, an election was held at Perryburg the same fall, in a little store-room of M. Fennimore. A. H. Leedy acted as first Justice, and was also chosen first Justice of the Peace. David Cox was first Clerk. The names of the other township officers are at present unknown.

The first trading post in the township was established by M. Fennimore, in Perryburg, in 1837. The first post-office was established the same year at the same place—Fennimore acting as Postmaster.

In 1838, John A. Taylor built a saw-mill, to which was afterward attached a corn-craeker. This stood on what is now the Chandler and Goodwin farm, on West Weyss Creek. About the same time, Joseph Holman built a saw mill, with a corn-craeker, on the Woodlark farm. These mills were highly prized by the pioneers for the great convenience it afforded them in having their corn ground so near home.

The first marriage in the township was that of Joseph Bartlett to a daughter of Hugh A. B. People, in the Spring of 1838; by A. H. Leedy, Justice of the Peace. A little later, the same year, John Scott was married to Mary Gillard, by Mr. Nelson, minister.

January 6, 1839, there was born to Sarah, wife of Martin Hoover, a daughter, Mary, who was probably the first white child born in the township.

The first death was Susannah Baltimore, which occurred in 1837. Her funeral was preached at the house of Martin Hoover, and was probably the first sermon of any kind preached in the township. A child of John Wright's died the same year—1837.

Among casualties we notice the sudden and mysterious disappearance of a Mr. Douglas. This gentleman had been laboring for some time on the Red River, in Jefferson Township, and was regarded by all as an honorable, upright young man. He, his close attention to business and studies, that he, some accumulated considerable money; with this he came to enter land. On a certain Saturday evening in 1836, he came in company with Mr. Scott, brother-in-law to Mr. Cannon, to the residence of the latter. Here it was arranged to borrow horses of Cannon, and for Smith to accompany Douglas a certain distance on his journey to Fort Wayne, the nearest land where Douglas was going to enter land.

Following morning, Smith and Douglas started on their journey. On Sunday, Smith returned, saying that Douglas had gone on to Fort Wayne. The latter was never heard of afterward. The land records here examined showed that he never appeared at Fort Wayne to enter land. The moral supposition of those who were acquainted with the circumstances was that Douglas had received bad treatment from the landholder Smith. Suspicion rested so heavily upon the fairness of Smith and Cannon that they soon after left the township for parts unknown, and their names have almost sunk into oblivion.

The names and location of churches in Union will be had by reference to the map. Her school houses are —, enrolled school children, —, population, —.

RES OF G. I. REED.
WEST MAIN ST. PERU INDIANA

The Peru Republican.

This paper was established in 1856 by the late E. F. Loveland, who conducted it with marked ability for a few years and then sold the office to W. S. Beahan, who is now publishing a newspaper at Grand Island, Michigan. The Republican was bought in 1874 by H. S. Chapin who conducted it until March, 1884, when it was bought by Reed & Brown. At that time the subscription list contained about 400 names, the total number of copies printed to supply exchange, newsstands, and subscribers was 100. In a successful effort to establish advance payment of subscriptions Mr. Chapin had succeeded in cutting off more than half the subscribers, but his successors in the proprietorship of the paper were the beneficiaries of his policy of endeavor. A newspaper that does not require advance payment of subscriptions has no foundation for a prosperous existence.

The list rapidly increased under the management of Reed & Brown, and has increased until the present. At the end of one year J. M. Brown sold his interest to G. I. Reed, who continued sole proprietor until May, 1892, when he sold a half interest to M. R. Sinks, formerly of the Connersville Times. Reed & Sinks were the proprietors and G. I. Reed the editor.

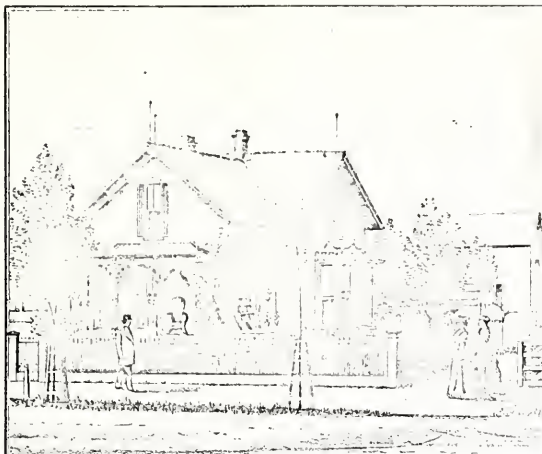

The Republican is in its 34th volume, is printed on a Gossnell & Babcock cylinder press, propelled by steam power. The office occupies a handsome and conveniently arranged brick building, as pictured on this page, on the corner of Main and Court streets, named by the editor and first expressly for the printing business. The office is furnished with the latest and finest type, two fast running, Job Presses, a Waller steam engine and such other material as enters into a complete outfit.

JOHN GUTHRIE

JOHN GUTHRIE, Esq. But in Town ship was born among the hills of Pike County, Ohio, August 28th, 1821. His early years were spent in the mountains of the West, in a log cabin, but as a person in nature, this was the birth of his father. The old home, however, was broken up. His mother, after a time, married a second time, and John continued at home, a faithful laborer, but in 1842, after this time for about five years, he changed, for wages, as a laborer, until reaching among the neighbors of his childhood. Arriving in 1844 year, (May 1st, 1844) he settled on Delilah Thompson. She was born August 25th, 1825, in the same school district as himself. The child grew up, schoolmates and playmates together. Five years after their marriage, at the fall of 1849, they left home, home and kindred farewell to see a home in the green woods of the "Albany River."

Upon their arrival, Mr. Guthrie very soon had claim to the sparsely settled area which he still feels, and which now affords him so desirable a home.

The price was $2.00 per acre, and was to come into payment about two years after the purchase was made. Here commenced, then, the lot of life, and it has since been fought both manfully and successfully. The time of payment drawing night he was about $80.00 short of the amount required. To secure this, he applied to his step-father—still at the old homestead, in the East—and was successful. For the payment chosen his purse was stripped! Not a dollar had he left; energy and determination, however, soon reappeared. Time wore away. The selling of the forest, untended fields, a crop, and other improvements began to be made. The original were cancelled! Instead of a trackless, sunless forest, it began to assume the appearance, at least, of semi-civilization. The pack of little wolves began to mingle at the fence, and the pastor of little feet, and the snuffling of tiny crows, were on the increase. In short, but in fact, these mountains were as much as a real home, as comfortable, as if it had been.

Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie are now the parents of twelve children, as follows:

WILLIAM, born Dec. 1st, 1851, died Feb. 1st, 1897.
JAMES W. born Jan. 1st, 1853, died Feb. 1st, 1897.
REBECCA, born Sept. 1st, 1855.
MARY, born Feb. 1st, 1857.
JOHN M. born Aug. 1st, 1859.
MIGUEL, born Aug. 1st, 1861.
PETER, born Aug. 1st, 1863.
SUSAN, born Aug. 1st, 1865.
HARVEY, born Aug. 1st, 1867.
MARK, born Aug. 1st, 1869.
LARRY, born Aug. 1st, 1871.
HIRSH, born Nov. 1st, 1873.

Two of the daughters, Mary and Rebecca, are in Louisiana County, Iowa. Mary is now in Louisiana County, Iowa. Rebecca is now in Louisiana County, Iowa. They will live in better homes. None of the boys are yet married. Most live in Johnson County, Iowa. All the children of the family are well and with their parents.

For the past twenty-two years, Mr. and Mrs. G. have been devoted to the cause of the Christian Church. In politics Mr. Guthrie is a Republican, having formerly been a Whig. He claims to be a good citizen, to be a good man, to be a good wife of the fence. He cut his first ballot for William Henry Harrison, the only one of the Presidents he has ever seen in person. He is a peace loving, law abiding citizen, just and honorable in all his deal. Never goes overseas for money, and hence, after the receipt of money. He never in his life had a case of law in court. He is highly and universally esteemed.
